Please choose only one

- A Child lives with both natural parents or with legally adoptive parents.
- B Parents are divorced or legally separated. Child lives with the parent who was granted legal custody by court order. If this is your situation, the school must be provided a certified copy of the custody order or decree at the time of enrollment.
- C Parents are divorced or legally separated. Child lives with the parent who was not granted legal custody by court order. If this is your situation, you will be referred to the Board of Education for an interview conference before your child will be admitted to school.
- D Child lives with neither natural parent but lives with a guardian who has been granted custody by court order. If this is your situation, the school must be provided a copy of the court order at time of admission. This situation may also apply to a married student under age of 18.
- E Child lives with guardian who has not been granted legal custody by court order. If this is your situation, you will be referred to the Board of Education for an interview conference before the child will be admitted to school.
- F Child lives with foster parents. If child was placed in your home by an accredited agency, a copy of the placement papers must be provided to the school at time of admission. If child was not placed by an accredited agency, the school will refer you to the Board of Education for an interview conference before the child will be admitted to school.
- G Child is 18-0 years old or older and lives apart from his/her parents or guardian.
- J Parents are divorced or legally separated and have joint or shared custody. If this is your situation, the school must be provided a certified copy of the custody order at the time of enrollment.
- S Child lives with single parent. Parent has never been married to the child's other biological parent and there has never been legal custody declared by court order.
- T Tuition student You must obtain a tuition agreement with current rates and payment schedule from the Board of Education office.
